RED 'TRUCE' GETS COLD SHOULDER

TYPICAL OF MANY FLOOD-INUNDATED areas left behind by the tropical hurricane is this view of the little city of Florida Keys, about 70 miles south of Miami. Roofs of cottages barely rise above water that reached a height of ten feet in this section. As the hurricane began moving out to sea, unofficial estimates placed the number of dead at 12 and the damage at $25,000,000.

5 Navy Fliers Found Safe After Crash In Canada

THE PAS, Man., Sept. 25—Five U. S. Navy fliers, who had been missing in the Canadian wilderness for 12 days, boarded an RCAF rescue plane today to return to civilization and were reported in "good shape."

The survivors dropped from sight 13 days ago when their naval plane crashed-landed on High Rock Lake on a flight from Churchill to The Pas.

They were found last night hacking their way through the bush and across the muskeg of Northern Saskatchewan 25 miles from where their wrecked plane had been spotted earlier in the day.

In Washington, the Navy Department reported it had received "confirmed reports from Ottawa that none of the men was in need of medical attention."

The location of the ship indicated the twin-engine Beaufighter C-45 had come down approximately 50 degrees off its course. High Rock Lake is some 250 miles northwest of The Pas.

Officials said that the pilot of the plane, Lt. Charles Wilcox, USN, had reported his compass was in error before he left Churchill.

The rescue plane, a Canco flying boat, landed on High Rock Lake after dropping supplies, maps and instructions to the five men to return to the lake.

Later a rescue party from the Canco made its way into the bush and guided the fliers back to the flying boat.

The crew of the Canco spotted a white arrow on the ground which gave the direction in which the men had set out to work their way back to civilization.

State To Benefit In Man's Will

NEW LEXINGTON, Sept. 25—The State of Ohio will be chief beneficiary of the will of a deceased Perry County infirmarian.

Charles Outland of Corning directed that all except $700 of his estate go to the Aid for Aged division for the purpose of paying old age pensions. The estate is expected to total nearly $7,000.

County home officials explained that Outland arranged to pay for his own keep when he requested admission three months before his death.

Hungary Envoy Given Lecture On U.S. Rights

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—The United States has told Hungary that it will not allow Americans to be persecuted for failure to meet demands of the Soviet war machine.

This, in substance, it was learned today, was the message given by the State Department to Hungarian Charge d'Affaires Andrew Sik.

Sik was called in by Acting Secretary of State Lovett for a lecture on the case of two American oil men who have been arrested on charges of sabotage in connection with Hungarian oil production.

The Americans are Karl Rudemann and George Bannantine, executives of the Hungarian-American Oil Co., an affiliate of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The accusation is that they sabotaged production of their plant by failing to keep it up to the Hungarian three-year program. According to the Budapest radio this could have been done if they had adopted "appropriate technical methods."

The owners of the oil facilities have had a long quarrel with the Balkan satellites over their demands for excessive production. Petroleum experts maintain that demands of the local governments would cause the wells to run dry far sooner than economic production.

More Arrests Are Due In Lancaster Case

LANCASTER, Sept. 25—Additional arrests arising out of the Fairfield County "hot ham" indictments were due to follow today after sheriff's deputies served warrants on the president of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and six others late yesterday.

One of the first arrests was that of 47-year-old John L. Johnson, Chamber president and owner of two Lancaster restaurants.

Johnson and four other men, arrested within a short time of each other, were charged with receiving and concealing stolen goods. They and a sixth man, charged with perjury, were released later under $1000 bond each.

The charge against Johnson and the others was made in connection with the theft of meat from the Swift and Co., plant in Columbus.

IN ADDITION to the men arrested in the "hot ham" case, two men were taken into custody, charged with perjury, in testimony before the grand jury during investigation of gambling. The other four, charged in the (Continued on Page Two)

Ex-Yank Embassy Aide Tagged As Assassination Plotter

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 25—Riotous anti-United States demonstrations, inflamed by Argentine President Juan D. Peron, left at least 20 persons injured in Buenos Aires today.

Peron, in a violent speech from the balcony of the Argentine white house, charged that "foreign capitalistic concerns and international interests" ordered his assassination.

Then he identified John F. Griffith, former cultural attache of the U. S. embassy in Argentina, as the alleged instigator of a plot to kill him and his wife.

Some 20,000 supporters, called out on a 14-hour general strike for the demonstrations, responded by running amok through the streets of the city until troops restored order.

inating those who stand in my path—that of a better nation."

Peron called Griffith, who was expelled from the country and is now a businessman in Montevideo, Uruguay, a "miserable spy" and "canaille."

In Montevideo, Griffith said he had been picked as a "scapegoat for internal scandals," and termed the accusation "a bad joke" and an "unfounded Police Gazette story."

The mob roared approval of Peron's charges, and then set out to find something on which to vent its fury. The U. S. embassy was guarded by a contingent of cavalry troops, and, instead, the crowd chose the anti-Peronist newspaper La Prensa as its target.

THE RIOTERS set bonfires, hurled stones, and, carrying nooses and gallows of all sizes, attempted at one point to lynch an unidentified bystander.

Observers interpreted the day's events, culmination of bitter political feud between Peron and his opponents, as a last-minute attempt to whip up support for Peron in the coming elections.

Peron, himself, charged by the opposition with suppressive measures, responded by telling the mob:

"I am losing my patience and I will proceed with elim-

A HUGE bonfire was set before the front door of the newspaper's building, and crowds attempted to pry up the steel shutters protecting its lower windows with crowbars and long poles. Others hurled rocks at the windows.

Dispersed by a troop of cavalry, the crowd stopped street-cars and busses and forced all passengers to get out.

Not far from the La Prensa building, mob leaders spied an unidentified man on the Avenida De Mayo. With shouts of "let's hang him," they began a chase, but the man escaped into a hotel.

Truman Still Blasting GOPsters; Dewey Hush-Hush On Frisco Talk

PHOENIX, Sept. 25—President Truman's campaign train moved eastward through the Southwest today with the chief executive ready to fire more ammunition at his Republican opponents in the November election.

The presidential train, traveling through Arizona, stopped at Phoenix last night. Mr. Truman told a crowd at the railway station that the Republicans "want to move the capital from Washington back to Wall Street." The President declared:

"The Republicans are still saving up a lot of special interest measures hoping that in the next Congress there won't be too many Democrats to protect the people."

"They have been working at it in the Congress for the last two years and they're now trying to capture the executive branch of the government so they can complete the job."

"When it comes to making promises, they come right along saying, 'me too.'"

"BUT WHEN it comes to making good on their promises, that's something else."

Mr. Truman plugged away at his earlier statements to the effect that the Republican Congress failed to provide for Western reclamation and irrigation projects financially.

The President completed the important California phase of his tour yesterday with speeches at San Diego and other stops during which he called the Republicans a group of "saboteurs."

At Oceanside, near San Diego, he charged that "this Republican Eightieth Congress has done everything it possibly can to sabotage the West" on irrigation and housing problems.

Meanwhile, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign special rolled north toward San Francisco today for his second major speech—its subject a closely kept secret—in the home state of his GOP running-mate.

The Republican presidential candidate came closer than at any point in his nationwide trip to trading blows with President Truman when he bluntly accused the Democratic administration of giving "aid and comfort" to the Communists.

Dewey's charge was made before a cheering crowd of more than 25,000 in Los Angeles' Hollywood Bowl last night after a full day of speeches bidding for California's 25 electoral votes.

FOR THE first time on his 8,000-mile trip, which began last Sunday at Albany, the GOP nominee's closest aides said they could give no inkling of what Dewey would talk about tonight in San Francisco.

Dewey was lustily welcomed when, after a one and one-half hour program of Hollywood en-

7 PRISONERS ARRAIGNED

Era Man Gets Hard Labor Sentence For Bad Checks

Ebon Junior Taylor, 24, of Era, was sentenced one to three years at hard labor in the Ohio penitentiary when he pleaded guilty Friday on two counts of drawing checks with insufficient funds.

Pickaway County grand jury indicted Taylor earlier this week on the two check accusations and on non-support to which he pleaded innocent.

The Era man was among seven prisoners arraigned Friday afternoon before Judge William D. Radcliff in common pleas court. All were indicted by grand jury.

Judge Radcliff fined Ethel Smith of Circleville $50 and costs when she pleaded guilty to an indictment of drawing a $15 check with insufficient funds.

JAIL SENTENCE was suspended with the provision that she make restitution for the bad check. The judge remanded her to sheriff's custody until the fine and costs are paid.

Leniency on a jail sentence was extended Mrs. Smith since she had been held in the county jail since July 8.

Ashley Smith of Circleville pleaded innocent to an accusation of non-support brought against him. He was placed under $500 bond until his case can be heard.

Sentence was deferred by the judge until 10 a. m. Monday for the four others who pleaded guilty to indictments.

Dale Figley and Thomas Lane, both 18, of San Pedro, Cal., will hear pronouncement of sentence to indictments of auto larceny returned against them.

Soviets Warn Air Corridors To Be Slashed

BERLIN, Sept. 25—Russia stepped up her harassment of the Allied airlift today by warning that Soviet planes will cut across all three corridors in formation.

The Soviets told U. S. officials at the Berlin Air Safety Center that the planes will maneuver between Fuerstenwalde, southeast of Berlin, and Perleberg, northeast of the city.

The Soviets also reiterated a request for exact information on the Anglo-American airlift planes. This request previously has been turned down by Western authorities.

Meanwhile, the airlift went on in spite of Russian threats and an attempt yesterday to seal off the airlift with sporadic gunfire.

Soviet planes hurled shells into the corridor late yesterday but failed to hit any Allied aircraft.

Only one American pilot—and none of the British fliers—sighted actual shooting. The American said he saw a Soviet plane's gunners fire at a ground target.

West Labels Move 'Clever'

PARIS, Sept. 25—Soviet Russia called for a one-year disarmament "truce" today and accused the United States of planning an atomic war against her.

Immediately after the bitter address before the United Nations General Assembly, Western diplomats were in general agreement Andrei Vishinsky's proposal was largely a clever propaganda move.

A typical U. S. comment was made by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

"It will be tragic if the people of the world are misled by this move. It is extremely distressing to see such complete lack of understanding of the problem, especially in respect to atomic control."

"If you are going to have really effective control of atomic energy, it must be at the source, and the Soviets are refusing this, despite all Vishinsky may say."

U. S. Secretary of State Marshall declined to comment, but Benjamin Cohen, adviser to the American delegation, said:

"There's not much sense in reducing armaments until you reduce the causes for them. That's the root of the problem."

BRITISH Minister of State Hector McNeill tersely described Vishinsky's address as "cold cabbage."

A different tack was taken by Cuban Delegate Guillermo Belt who said he thought the West should call Russia's bluff by agreeing to the proposed armaments reduction.

Then, said Belt, the UN could set up a watch-dog committee to oversee all phases of Soviet armament and war potential.

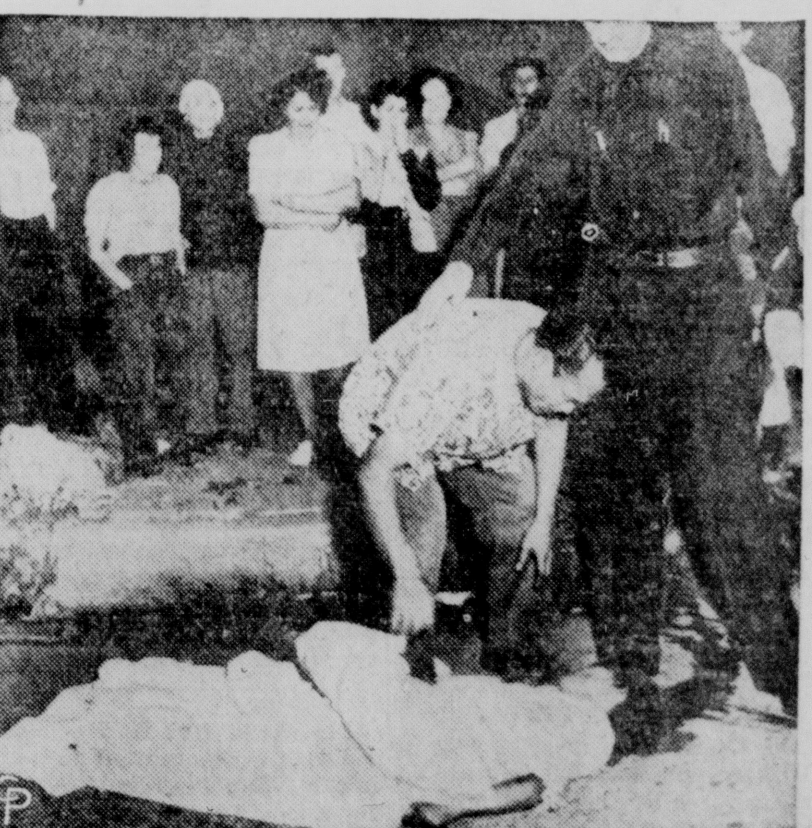

In a violent attack against leading American political and military figures, Vishinsky placed the Soviet "peace or war" (Continued on Page Two)

Solon Returns From Europe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Senate Minority Whip Lucas, (D) Ill., predicted today that United States will back European democracies with military as well as economic aid if necessary.

Lucas, back from a tour of Europe, said he would "not stand in the way" of military aid although he is "exasperated" over the slowness with which Western European countries are moving toward a customs and currency exchange union. He said "the English are dragging their feet."

The Illinois Democrat declared that in his opinion "we are not going to have war with Russia."

But the full impact of those fatalities strikes deep into Abilana's heart as he bends helplessly and distraughtly over the crushed body of his 8-year-old son, Pahl. The boy was struck and killed by an automobile while he was riding a bicycle near his home.

Spy Probers Ready Lengthy Report On Findings In Hearings

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Congressional spy probers whipped into shape today a voluminous report containing an expose of Russian and Communist efforts to obtain America's atomic secrets.

The report, expected to be ready within a few days, will be based upon three weeks of secret testimony taken by the House Un-American Activities Committee. No public hearings will be held.

The charges stem from Alexander's declaration at a Senate hearing that several hundred visas were issued to subversives who entered this country from duty with the United Nations and other international organizations.

NEW 114-PASSENGER LUXURY AIR LINERS BRING REALIZATION OF AIR AGE NEARER

By BOB BURANDT
Central Press Correspondent
SEATTLE, Wash.—The business man wheeled around in his swivel chair and faced the window, looking west, in an Empire State building office. He talked into the phone.

"Joe, I want to come out to Seattle right away and talk over that deal on the pulp mill. Let's see... it's 11 a. m. in New York now, and 8 a. m. in Seattle. I'll leave Idlewild Airport in an hour, so pick me up in your car at Seattle-Tacoma Airport at 5:20 this afternoon, Seattle time. O.K.?"

That type of business conversation is just a bit premature as of this moment. However, it will be an everyday affair by this time next year, when the luxurious new Stratocruisers, now being rolled off the assembly lines here in Seattle, are criss-crossing the airways of the nation, and the world.

New York City to Seattle—8 hours 20 minutes—faster if absolutely necessary! The long-talked-about Air Age is really here to a surprising degree, but the public has not actually discovered it yet.

It is a certainty, however, that the swifter, more elegantly appointed air liners such as the Douglas DC-4 and other coming new transports manufactured by various companies will envelope more and more persons to travel by air, even those who up to now have been afraid to fly.

However, three requirements of the new ships, if the public is really to be satisfied, are safety, sheer comfort, and speed.

Take the Stratocruiser, for instance, which was given a certificate of approval by the Civil Aeronautics administration on Sept. 8 after traveling 210,000 miles in a series of comprehensive flight tests involving every phase of operation.

This big sky giant, over 110 feet long, with a wingspan over 141 feet, powered by four 3,500-horsepower, 28-cylinder engines, is comfort personified.

THERE ARE separate, spacious dressing rooms for men and women, located in the forward part of the upper deck. Both have large mirror-walls.

The ladies' lounge is equipped with twin powder tables and an upholstered settee. Tables have individual mirrors, ashtrays, and cleansing tissue dispensers. Wash basins have hot and cold running water, and lotion dispensers.

Five male passengers can use the men's dressing room at the same time. It is fitted with four electric razor outlets (to placate the temper of the man who does not like to stand in line).

"Daytime luxury" chairs have foam rubber padding and figure-designed forming of the basic structure which makes them equally comfortable for either a lightweight girl or a heavy man; and are spaced 40 inches apart, allowing plenty of stretching room for especially tall people.

A special "control panel" is provided for each passenger on the outer armrest of his chair. On it are an ash tray, light switch, stewardess call button, an "occupied" placard, a slot to hold the leg of a newly designed food tray (eliminating the old problem of trying to balance your tray on your knees—in addition, dishes will be kept steady by means of tray inserts), a control for adjusting position of the seat-back, and a seat number sign.

"Soft-spot" directional reading lights are pre-focused for each person, and throw straight beams directly on the chairs, so that the light does not bother passengers in adjacent seats who do not wish to read at night.

Another type of chair is the "berthable luxury," which makes up into a larger-than-Pullman size berth, 74½ inches long by 42 inches wide. The upper berths fold into the cabin walls when not in use, and are 75 inches long by 40 inches wide.

THE STRATOCRUISER is probably better heated and ventilated than the most modern of homes—two important factors in passenger comfort. Warm-wall radiant heating is used, instead of the old type direct-draft ventilation. Controlled temperature air entering the cabin first passes through the walls, then enters the cabin at the ceiling.

Cabin air is completely replaced with new air every 90 seconds, removing all smoke and traces of odor before it might become objectionable. Special filters remove dust, dirt, smoke color and airborne bacteria from the air, in addition. If humidity is low, a "psychrometer" detects and corrects the dryness.

AN INTEGRAL part of the heating and ventilating of the Stratocruiser is the "altitude-conditioning" system. This device enables the ship to fly in the smooth upper-air levels where greater speed and economy are possible, while passengers and crew enjoy low-altitude air. It can take off and climb to 15,000 feet rapidly or slowly without changing the sea-level air pressure conditions inside the plane.

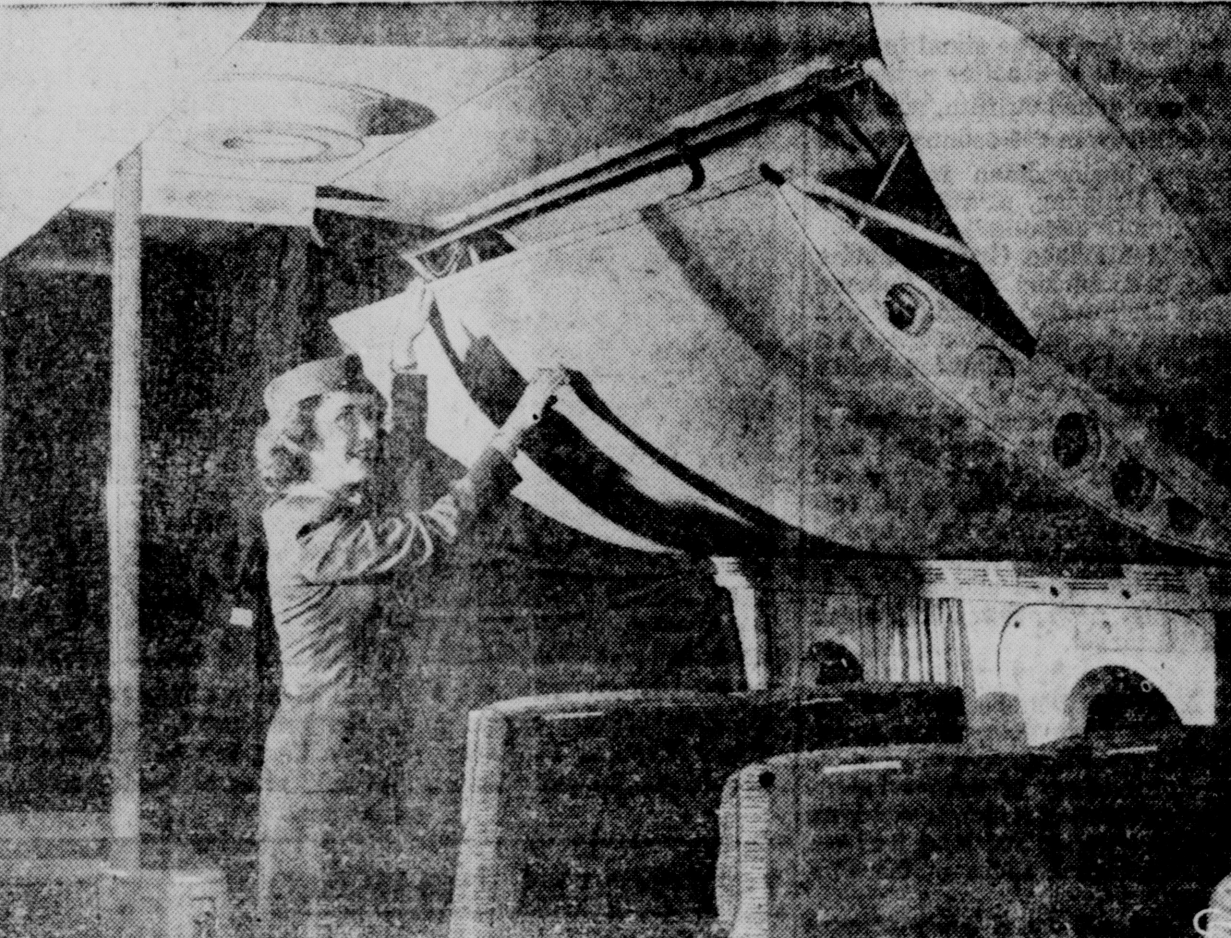

Above 15,000 feet, the cabin "altitude" rises very slowly until, with the ship flying at 25,000 feet, the cabin conditioning system maintains an effective and still comfortable cabin altitude of only 5,500 feet. At 30,000 feet, the inside altitude is still only 8,000 feet.

This system eliminates "ear-popping" and other uncomfortable sensations experienced by passengers during climb or descending in planes not so equipped. It is a vital necessity for comfort, since the Stratocruiser will fly at higher altitudes than any other airliner now in operation.

Passengers can always sightsee out of the large, round porthole windows. Cabin air, passing between the double window-panes, removes any frost or fog which might be caused by differences in outside and inside temperatures.

SECLUDED RENDEZVOUS—This is the luxury-plus cocktail lounge in the Stratocruiser's lower deck.

NO INSOMNIA HERE—Berths aboard new giant air liner are larger than those of sleeping cars.

stalled in a commercial plane, is situated near the tail. From it, 24 complete meals can be turned out every 18 minutes.

Piece de resistance in comfort, of course, is the lower-deck cocktail lounge, which seats 14 passengers at one time, reached easily by means of a spiral staircase.

In addition to physical comforts—through exhaustive research—the interiors of the Stratocruiser's two decks have been designed with proper choice and application of colors to further reduce such troubles as air sickness and fatigue.

Passengers will find colors and designs comforting to the eyes and mind.

Safety, most important of all, and speed, are next. The Stratocruiser fairly reeks with these two factors. If really in a hurry, the ship can hit along at 375 miles an hour, although it will normally cruise at from 300 to 340 m.p.h.

It has a maximum range of 4,200 miles, allowing flights to be made nonstop across the Atlantic, or between Pacific stopping points, with more than adequate fuel reserves.

Because of its extremely high cruising speed, this airliner can complete its schedules well within the period of foreseeable weather—an important item in safety.

From nose to tip of tail, the latest improved safety features are used.

THE GIANT AIR LINER was designed to withstand even higher load factors than Civil Aeronautics administration rules specify. In the interests of safety, every part of the ship, even the most tiny one, has undergone painstaking tests for defects, and any defects found were corrected.

Gracefully tapered, the 38-foot high vertical tail of the Stratocruiser is remarkably like its wartime "cousins," the Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress and the B-29 Superfortress, from which the new ship was developed.

This large area of the vertical fin assures smooth flight and also makes possible "hands off" flight even with two engines cut out. A great safety factor, the fin area is sufficient to allow easy pilot control even in case of engine failure at takeoff.

ALL WING and tail surfaces are equipped with thermal anti-icing. Heated by self-contained units, hot air is blown through wing and tail leading edge ducts, which effectively prevents ice from forming.

For short range, inter-city flights—high density traffic, up to 114 passengers will be carried, but long distance loads will be 60 to 80 passengers, depending on the range needed, amount of freight and baggage carried, and on the type of seating or berthing arrangement desired.

Boeing expects to start deliveries of the 56 Stratocruisers now built or under contract to airlines this fall. Northwest Airlines, United Air Lines, Pan American World Airways, American Overseas Airlines, Scandinavian Airlines System and British Overseas Airways Corporation all have fleets of Stratocruisers ordered.

The last four lines will use their new ships between the United States and Europe, with average schedules of 11½ hours from New York to London.

Stratocruisers will be used on the domestic runs of United and Northwest; on United's Hawaii run, and over Northwest's Great Circle Orient Route—about 15 hours from Seattle to Tokyo. A passenger will be able to completely circle the globe in approximately 67 hours flying time!

this before the United Nations in the following terms:

1—A one-third reduction during the current year of all present land, naval and air forces of the major powers.

2—Prohibition of atomic weapons for aggressive use.

3—Establishment of an international control force by the UN Security Council to insure execution of the other proposals.

Vishinsky's proposals took the United Nations, meeting in the lavish Palais De Chaillot along the banks of the River Seine, entirely by surprise.

Vishinsky boasted that the Soviet Union has only peaceful intentions.

In a tirade paralleling his celebrated "war-monger" speech last Sept. 18—almost exactly a year ago—Vishinsky accused the U. S. of blocking international control of atomic energy.

Vishinsky blasted U. S. and British leaders. He named specifically U. S. Defense Secretary James Forrestal, Air Force General George C. Kenney, and Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall as "fountainheads of a war policy."

VISHINSKY then assailed the U. S. as responsible for the deadlock in efforts to secure international control of atomic energy and for the armaments race.

Declaring that the atomic bomb is a weapon of attack and aggression, and a U. S. monopoly, Vishinsky called on all "peace-loving peoples" to "raise their voices for the immediate prohibition of the use of the atomic bomb intended for mass extermination of peaceful populations and the destruction of peaceful cities."

Vishinsky insisted that the network of treaties by which Soviet Russia has bound all its satellites to come to its defense is different from Western alliances, since it is directed against German aggression.

Vishinsky asserted: "Reactionary circles in the United States and Britain, as well as countries like France and Belgium do not confine themselves to slander and abuse alone."

"This campaign is now being headed not only by amateurs from the family of retired politicians, statesmen, senators and members of parliament, but also by persons holding high official posts in the governments of the U. S., Britain, France, and some other countries."

2 Men Held In Ironton Theft
IRONTON, Sept. 25—Ironton police were holding two men today in connection with the Monday morning burglary of a local hardware store that netted thieves $1200 and 20 guns of various types.

Under arrest were 20-year-old Kenneth Simmons of Ironton and 18-year-old Harold C. Grey of Portland, Me.

The arrest uncovered 15 of the stolen guns and other merchandise in a raid near Ironton, Thursday. The $1200, however, was not found.

Courts Seen Ending Dispute On 'Giveaways'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—The battle of the "giveaway" radio just simmered to a new pitch today with the prospect that the courts may eventually have to decide whether anything is really "as free as the air."

Opponents of this ethereal sparring match are some of the major networks and the "watchdog" of the airwaves—the Federal Communications Commission.

PRAGUE, Sept. 25—Czech security police accused United States "agents" today of plotting to bomb the Czechoslovakian parliament building and kill ministers and members of parliament.

A Prague announcement said that two U. S. Army counter-intelligence corps operatives, identified as "Lloyd" and "Wasser-Alfingen" told Koch to bomb the building.

NEW 114-PASSENGER LUXURY AIR LINERS BRING REALIZATION OF AIR AGE NEARER

By BOB BURANDT
Central Press Correspondent
SEATTLE, Wash.—The business man wheeled around in his swivel chair and faced the window, looking west, in an Empire State building office. He talked into the phone.

"Joe, I want to come out to Seattle right away and talk over that deal on the pulp mill. Let's see... it's 11 a. m. in New York now, and 8 a. m. in Seattle. I'll leave Idlewild Airport in an hour, so pick me up in your car at Seattle-Tacoma Airport at 5:20 this afternoon, Seattle time. O.K.?"

That type of business conversation is just a bit premature as of this moment. However, it will be an everyday affair by this time next year, when the luxurious new Stratocruisers, now being rolled off the assembly lines here in Seattle, are criss-crossing the air-planes of the nation, and the world.

New York City to Seattle—8 hours 20 minutes—faster if absolutely necessary! The long-talked-about Air Age is really here to a surprising degree, but the public has not actually discovered it yet.

It is a certainty, however, that the swifter, more elegantly appointed air liners such as the double-deck Stratocruisers and other coming new transports manufactured by various companies will envelope more and more persons to travel by air, even those who up to now have been afraid to fly.

However, three requirements of the new ships, if the public is really to be satisfied, are safety, sheer comfort, and speed.

Take the Stratocruiser, for instance, which was given a certificate of approval by the Civil Aeronautics administration on Sept. 8 after traveling 210,000 miles in a series of comprehensive flight tests involving every phase of operation.

This big sky giant, over 110 feet long, with a wingspan over 141 feet, powered by four 3,500-horsepower, 28-cylinder engines, is comfort personified.

THERE ARE separate, spacious dressing rooms for men and women, located in the forward part of the upper deck. Both have large mirror-walls.

The ladies' lounge is equipped with twin powder tables and an upholstered settee. Tables are individual mirrors, ashtrays and cleansing tissue dispensers. Wash basins have hot and cold running water, and lotion dispensers.

Five male passengers can use the men's dressing room at the same time. It is fitted with four electric razor outlets (to placate the temper of the man who does not like to stand in line).

"Daytime luxury" chairs have foam rubber padding and figure-designed forming of the basic structure which makes them equally comfortable for either a lightweight girl or a heavy man; and are spaced 40 inches apart, allowing plenty of stretching room for especially tall people.

A special "control panel" is provided for each passenger on the outer armrest of his chair. On it are an ash tray, light switch, stewardess call button, an "occupied" placard, a slot to hold the leg of a newly designed foot tray (eliminating the old problem of trying to balance your tray on your knees—in addition, dishes will be kept steady by means of tray inserts), a control for adjusting position of the seat-back, and a seat number sign.

"Soft-spot" directional reading lights are pre-focused for each person, and throw straight beams directly on the chairs, so that the light does not bother passengers in adjacent seats who do not wish to read at night.

Another type of chair is the "berthable luxury," which makes up into a larger-than-Pullman size berth, 74 1/2 inches long by 42 inches wide. The upper berths fold into the cabin walls when not in use, and are 75 inches long by 40 inches wide.

THE STRATOCRUISER is probably better heated and ventilated than the most modern of homes—two important factors in passenger comfort. Warm-wall radiant heating is used, instead of the old type direct-draft ventilation. Controlled temperature air entering the cabin first passes through the walls, then enters the cabin at the ceiling.

Cabin air is completely replaced with new air every 90 seconds, removing all smoke and traces of odor before it might become objectionable. Special filters remove dust, dirt, smoke color and airborne bacteria from the air, in addition. If humidity is low, a "psychrometer" detects and corrects the dryness.

SECLUDED RENDEZVOUS—This is the luxury-plus cocktail lounge in the Stratocruiser's lower deck.

NO INSOMNIA HERE—Berths aboard new giant air liner are larger than those of sleeping cars.

AN INTEGRAL part of the heating and ventilating of the Stratocruiser is the "altitude-conditioning" system. This device enables the ship to fly in the smooth upper-air levels where greater speed and economy are possible, while passengers and crew enjoy low-altitude air. It can take off and climb to 15,000 feet rapidly or slowly without changing the sea-level air pressure conditions inside the plane.

Above 15,000 feet, the cabin "altitude" rises very slowly until, with the ship flying at 25,000 feet, the cabin conditioning system maintains an effective and still comfortable cabin altitude of only 5,500 feet. At 30,000 feet, the inside altitude is still only 8,000 feet.

This system eliminates "ear-popping" and other uncomfortable sensations experienced by passengers during climb or descending in planes not so equipped. It is a vital necessity for comfort, since the Stratocruiser will fly at higher altitudes than any other airliner now in operation.

Passengers can always sightsee out of the large, round porthole windows. Cabin air, passing between the double window-panes, removes any frost or fog which might be caused by differences in outside and inside temperatures.

Also, the passenger can feel no drafts, nor buffeting of air, because the circulating air keeps wall and window areas at approximately body temperature.

An efficient, gleaming galley, the largest air kitchen ever installed in a commercial plane, is situated near the tail. From it, 24 complete meals can be turned out every 15 minutes.

Piece de resistance in comfort, of course, is the lower-deck cocktail lounge, which seats 14 passengers at one time, reached easily by means of a spiral staircase.

In addition to physical comforts—through exhaustive research—the interiors of the Stratocruiser's two decks have been designed with proper choice and application of colors to further reduce such troubles as air sickness and fatigue.

Passengers will find colors and designs comforting to the eyes and mind.

Safety, most important of all, and speed, are next. The Stratocruiser fairly reeks with these two factors. If really in a hurry, the ship can hit along at 375 miles an hour, although it will normally cruise at from 300 to 340 m.p.h.

It has a maximum range of 4,200 miles, allowing flights to be made nonstop across the Atlantic, or between Pacific stopping points, with more than adequate fuel reserves.

Because of its extremely high cruising speed, this airliner can complete its schedules well within the period of forecastable weather—an important item in safety.

THE GIANT AIR LINER was designed to withstand even higher load factors than Civil Aeronautics administration rules specify. In the interests of safety, every part of the ship, even the most tiny one, has undergone painstaking tests for defects, and any defects found were corrected.

Truman Campaign Bringing Strife To U.S., Claim

TOLEDO, Sept. 25—House Speaker Martin, (R) Mass., charged today that President Truman's campaign strategy is an appeal to "strife and division among our people."

Martin, addressing a Republican rally, flatly predicted a "smashing victory" for the GOP presidential slate of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Gov. Earl Warren. He said:

"This year ours is a patriotic crusade to bring to an end 15 long years of experimental socialism, extravagance, waste and deplorable bureaucratic bungling."

The speaker, reviewing the record of the 80th Congress, said Republicans would like to do something in the new session convening in January about reducing wartime excise taxes.

The speaker said Republicans in the new Congress will press "with renewed vigor" for a broadened program of veterans' benefits and streamlining of the Veterans Administration.

U.S. Leaders Endorsing Religious Education Week

Religious education is a fundamental service to the community, according to Secretary of Defense James Forrestal.

"Religious education is the method by which the churches teach, first the basis of faith, and then its social meaning," the federal cabinet member said in an endorsement of Religious Education Week.

The church observance begins Sunday for 90 percent of U. S. and Canadian Protestants with Rally Day services in tens of thousands of churches, according to Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, which sponsors the event.

Other sponsors of Religious Education Week whose endorsements were released today include Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures, and Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, co-president of the World Council of Churches.

"The houses of worship in the United States are our fortresses of faith. In every community they are the headquarters of public good and community conscience," Warner stated. "Religious Education Week offers the opportunity for a rededication of the American people to the principles of enlightenment and brotherhood which are the cornerstones of every house of God."

"Free society rests upon the moral principles of religion. Freedom passes when men are taught that the individual is simply a cell in an organism, or when man is thought of in materialistic terms," Bishop Oxnam, chief of the New York Area of the Methodist Church and recently featured "man of the week" in Time, declared.

"Religious education is essential to our national existence. It is in this education that the student learns he is a child of God and therefore of infinite worth; that he belongs to one human family, and therefore must be a brother to all men; that love lies at the heart of the universe and therefore must be manifest in good will toward all his fellows. Unless the free man who lives in a free society is voluntarily ruled by the ideals of religion, the free society passes, the individual becomes enslaved. Religious Education Week is not just another week. It is fundamental to the preservation of freedom."

Scripture—Acts 16:1-5; 17:13-15; I Corinthians 4:14-21; 16:10-11; Philipians 2:19; I Thessalonians 3:11-10; II Timothy 1:3-14; 3:14-15.

By Alfred J. Buescher

At Lystra, in Galatia, lived a Christian family, a grandmother, Lois, a mother, Eunice, a Jewess and believer, and her son, Timothy, whose father, however, was a Greek citizen.

Paul coming to Lystra, met Timothy, of whom he had heard good reports. The young man found favor with Paul, who asked that Timothy go with him on his journey.

Paul and Timothy set out from Lystra, visiting the cities, delivering decrees from the mother church in Jerusalem, establishing churches in the faith and increasing them.

From his dungeon prison Paul wrote to Timothy how he longed to see him, that he might be filled with joy in his imprisonment.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 119:11.

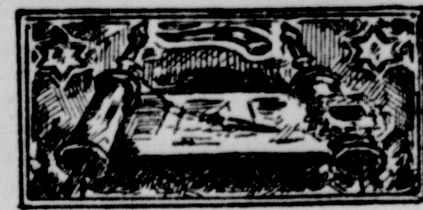

Excerpt from Teachings of the BAHAI FAITH

"The Baha'i Revelation gives the world not only a religion, but a world order. It not only contains spiritual food and inspiration for each one of us; it presents humanity with a blue-print for a unified world."

Priest Books Life Institute

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25 —The Institute of Social Education of St. John college in Cleveland will be inaugurated Oct. 4 with a program of classes, forums and lectures.

The program, announced by the Rev. Frances W. Carney, director of the institute, will be open to men and women from every walk of life, regardless of race, creed, color and previous education.

Primary purpose of the institute, Father Carney said, is for presentation of the teachings of the Catholic church in application to present day problems.

Paul coming to Lystra, met Timothy, of whom he had heard good reports. The young man found favor with Paul, who asked that Timothy go with him on his journey.

Paul and Timothy set out from Lystra, visiting the cities, delivering decrees from the mother church in Jerusalem, establishing churches in the faith and increasing them.

From his dungeon prison Paul wrote to Timothy how he longed to see him, that he "might be filled with joy" in his imprisonment.

FACING WORLD OPINION

THE argument has been made that this country should not propose to take the problem of Germany to the United Nations, because we have an obligation to help the United Nations to solve disputes and therefore should solve our own.

The United Nations is not a forum to which only the small nations can go—or be called—for judgment of their actions, while the big nations go their own way. We must take care not to make it so. We must help wherever and whenever we can to prevent its becoming so. If there still remain avenues of direct negotiation with Russia to be explored, the Western Powers might be justified in holding their own counsel with the German problem. But if direct talk has been exhausted, we should be ready to face the United Nations Assembly with the matter.

The greatest hindrance to finding hope in the United Nations is not in our position but in the limitations of the organization. Secretary Marshall remarked, as he prepared to leave for Paris, that the United Nations is not able to make peace, but only to sustain it. While we should not hesitate to take our problems to the Assembly, as a practical matter we may have to find our own solution.

But the United Nations now exists, and can grow strong only by exercising its powers. Americans must not forget that.

THE OLD ELM TREE

SPREADING slowly over the range of the elm trees, the Dutch Elm disease year by year extends its threat of destruction to these fine trees over a wider area. It is in the later Summer and early Fall that the disease has its most rapid spread, as the second brood of the beetles which carry it are flying about.

When foresters express alarm over the spread of a tree disease, it is well to pay heed. Tree diseases can become epidemic, like human diseases, and may wipe out whole species. The blight which destroyed the native chestnuts in the East and Midwest early in the century is recalled.

Although the elms have high value as timber trees, they are thought of mostly as shade trees. Few trees are so treasured for their beauty as a stately old elm. It is big and staunch and seemingly indestructible. But a beetle so small it is lost in the crevices of the bark may cause it to wither and die.

It may be that the forester and the entomologist and the chemist can find a way to check the disease before it becomes a scourge of forest and park. We hope so.

There are more polls of one kind and another in this country than in all the rest of the world together.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

Until we reached the current era of socialization, Western society never questioned the function of the parent to rear its own children. In recent years, both Soviet Russia and Nazi Germany—in fact, all the totalitarian states—have insisted upon the right of government to control moral as well as physical conduct.

Growth of bureaucracy in the so-called democracies has increasingly shifted to experts those functions of life which heretofore had been regarded as the domain of the parent. In the field of education, not only the teacher but the educational administrator has insisted upon the ignorance and incompetence of the parent. Naturally, most mothers are not experts in the education of their children, not having been trained at Teachers' College, Columbia University, which is the center of expertness.

Some years ago, a movement was started to increase the contact of parents and teachers. Associations were organized in schools and meetings have been held at stated periods. Obviously, the experts, namely, the teachers and educational administrators, do most of the talking because they are experts. Most parents are busy maintaining a family, keeping house and few have read all the books on how to rear children and what to do about education; therefore, they cannot talk back when the expert explains that this new method of teaching spelling does not teach the child how to spell but will make the child more fit to live in one world or something.

Nevertheless, under our system of life, the child remains the responsibility of the parent. Teachers, psychologists, pediatricians have their place, but they do not replace the parent. Nor has the parent transferred to the state or to a board of education the moral obligation of child-rearing. While the state has the legal authority to insist upon compulsory school attendance, it has no right to determine to what kind of school the child shall be sent by its parents. In recent years, educational administrators have succeeded in obtaining powers to enforce a minimum qualification for all schools, even to those which support themselves financially. No powers can prevent a parent from telling the child that a secular, a moral education is inadequate for character-building.

The danger to both child and parent lies in the huge cost of educational operations. In short, as local taxes do not meet budgetary requirements, first a demand is made for state aid and then for federal aid. As the state and then the federal administration set up funds for local schooling, they also are bound to set up conditions which can be expanded ultimately until local supervision disappears.

In New York State, Governor Dewey has insisted upon increasing the taxing power of local communities so that they may meet this problem. He said of this:

"The people of our respective communities are expecting higher and higher standards of service from local government. Without close correlation between the spending of public money and the responsibility for collecting it through taxes, local responsibility for government will degenerate rapidly and we shall have an all-powerful, centralized government. That prospect is a grave threat to free government today."

DIET AND HEALTH

Weight Is a Key to Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NEARLY all of us like to watch our weight, not merely as a matter of curiosity but as an index of health; and it is true that either a sudden gain or a sudden loss in weight may have medical significance.

Weight loss is associated especially with ailments affecting the stomach and bowel, and recent analyses of the case records of some 227 patients show that it very often indicates the presence of organic trouble somewhere in the digestive tract.

No Weight Loss

Young people included in the study showed no weight loss. Most patients under the age of 20, who complained of gastro-intestinal troubles did not have any organic disease; that is, there was nothing actually amiss with the tissues of the stomach and bowel though, for one reason or another, they did not function just as they should.

After the age of 20, weight loss in practically all instances meant organic trouble in patients of this age, organic changes are very likely to be at the root of this type of ailment whether or not there is weight loss.

Between the ages of 21 and 60—the age group which applied to most of the patients studied—the cause of weight loss was less definite. When no weight loss occurred, there was a 50-50 chance that the trouble was functional. In the presence of weight loss, however, the probability of organic disturbance was greater.

The study showed that, for every patient who had lost weight from a functional disorder, there were

DETOUR TO DUMMY

HAVING some established or high-card trick winners in the dummy, and then possessing no card of their suit to lead to them is an uncomfortable position for a declarer. At such a time, however, he may be able to get over there by means of a detour, through leading to a defender who in turn will have to give the dummy the lead. Plays of that sort occur so rarely that they may be classed as freaks.

That crazy bid, without a solitary card of his partner's suit, was due to South's shooting for impossible top scores in a duplicate game. Through sheer luck, a single vital mistake by the defense and one very queer play, South managed to get away with it.

West did not like the looks of his heart suit after East put the J on his K lead, so switched to the club J. East decided not to tell South too much of the club story, so played low and held on to his K. The declarer nevertheless divined the situation. Winning with the club Q, he followed with five spade tricks, on which West shed two hearts and his three diamonds.

Reading the facts aright, South reckoned that, if he scored his club A to drop the K, West could win the next lead and beat his head off with hearts and clubs. So he purposely led low from his club A, compelling East to win the now singleton K. Having nothing left but diamonds, East led his 10 to the J. The A and K then won and were followed by the 7 to the Q-5. East won with the Q, but then had to give the declarer an extra trick with the 5 to the 6. Of course if East had used the K on the first club trick, that play would have been impossible.

Your Week-End Question

How high must your partner's card on a trick be to have you consider it "encouraging," and how low to be "discouraging?"

SYNOPSIS
Beautiful Gau "rusty" Rogers, New York model, loves Sam Mercurio passionately. She wants him, all the time and excitement that goes with his career as a newspaper reporter. But, with realistic, adventure-loving Sam Gau knows that would be no real home life, no security. She is frightened by the poverty of her childhood and so makes up her mind to "Marry for Money." After a gay two-week dinner in Greenwich Village, Sam and Gau decide to make wedding plans. Gau is going to the wedding in a tuxedo and Sam is going to wear a tuxedo and Sam is going to wear a tuxedo and Sam is going to wear a tuxedo.

CHAPTER FIVE

PAT LOOKED fourteen in her pajamas. She was twenty but so small she could model for teenage clothes and usually did. She was thin and cute. She could wear her red hair loose or scrunched up on top of her head, as now, she could wear her face scrubbed and shining, and, on her, it looked good. Evie was dressed. She looked always as if she had never known a moment of dishevelment. Her figure was average, a little out of proportion, her legs only fair. But her face was remarkable, and greatly in demand by illustrators and photographers. You could see her face almost every month on magazine covers, in advertisements . . . just the nobly shaped head, the cloud of dark-brown hair, the widely spaced eyes, the beautiful features.

They were good but not intimate friends, these three. They borrowed from one another, anytime, a handbag, money, if one ran short; they scrupulously repaid. They got along well, recognizing differences in temperament and respecting them. Pat was a romantic, believing in her star. She had wanted to be a nurse. Her probationary experience had cured her of that but left her with a bias toward doctors . . . who were, usually, married. But now she had found one who wasn't. Although very soon he would be, and to her, which was fortunate, her friend agreed, as otherwise she would have become a hypochondriac.

Evie had had some slight stage experience, in summer stock. But she was interested not in the stage, but in the screen. She was cool and direct and even-tempered. She was extremely ambitious. She said, drinking her coffee:

"This man last night, Dave Gammon—he said he could get me a screen test."

"Golly," cried Pat, "you're as good as in . . ."

"Are you sure?" Gail asked. "Screen tests cost a lot of money."

"Sure enough," said Evie, "he's the McCoy. I made certain of that . . . a talent scout for Amalgamated."

"Marry For Money"

EARLY IN the evening Bradford Spencer rattled nappily around in his impressive bedroom, prior to keeping his engagement with Gail. He whistled, off key, raking a comb through his thick, mouse-colored hair, regarded himself in an uncompromising mirror and reflected that the plain man had one advantage over the superb specimen of masculinity glorified by the cinema and admired by the ladies. A beautiful girl must eventually reach the conclusion—given intelligence—that it's no fun to share your mirror. The unobtainable escort provides a setting, background, contrast and no competition. A comforting thought.

He looked from the tall windows across to the park, in the early dusk. He would never tire of this, nor the lights starring the deepening dusk. In spring the haze was violet, in autumn, a dreaming blue; in summer it was shot with gold and in winter shaken into a pictorial snowstorm, swirling about the lights.

A bell rang downstairs, which meant that his grandmother and her companion, were about to indulge in their aperitif of very dry sherry. Brad grinned briefly. His grandmother, Miss Ellis, the servant, the house itself, were all truly out of this world; his world, at any rate. For he was a physicist... the man who never noticed in the street, the man to whom no legend had attached itself, the obscure man.

For a time he had broken away, he had been part of danger in the open, the danger anyone could read about in the headlines. He'd managed that by sheer stubbornness, by pulling every possible wire, by shouting down the claims that he was essential. But they'd pulled him back, out of the open understandable warfare into the other kind, the secret kind, into the battle of Oak Ridge, from which one derived no wounds... if lucky.

There had been others whom from a distance young Mr. Spencer had adored, particularly, when at 22 he had encountered a charming compatriot in Paris. But she was already considering a title. Had she been poor, he realistically reminded himself, she might have relinquished the strawberry leaves, in fact the strawberry leaves would have relinquished her. But she hadn't been poor by a long shot... then, at any rate.

Contemplating the evening with Gail, he had found himself smitten with a slight case of the shakes. He wasn't sure that he was in love with her... or was he? He tried to rationalize the impulse that had sent him heading to the telephone this morning in the Pennsylvania station. He thought, she's a blond, and she has rather a look of little what's-her-name in Newport, now, it may be added, safely married, and the mother of three sons. The copper-washed hair, the slender structure, the pointed chin...

His grandmother, trotting out for inspection the granddaughters of her old, respectable, well-heeled friends, had advised him upon several occasions that he must marry; and soon... There was a sinister implication that if he didn't before senility overtook him, the Spencer line would perish. She also advised a charming, intelligent young woman who would share his interests. This seemed unlikely unless he married a female scientist which so far he had not been tempted to do. But a cozy evening at home with his bride discussing nuclear chain reaction did not appeal to him and would certainly not appeal to his bride or anyone else's.

Since encountering Gail at the fashion show his grandmother had done a little gentle probing. He couldn't blame her. She had lost her only child, his father, tragically and his mother, whom she had also loved, had died a year or so later. She herself had been widowed early. Brad had never known his grandfather. It was natural that she interest herself in his affairs... and sometimes regretted quite openly that, as far as her knowledge went, he'd had none. Mrs. Spencer belonged to a generation which believed in a wild oat or two provided they were hothouse grown, or under wraps. What she didn't know was that Brad had sown an oat, in Paris, after he had been refused by his fellow countrywoman. It had been very gay, very expensive and a lot of fun, but would, he decided, pall with repetition.

He heard the creak of the dumbwaiter, and grinned. This was quite a house, sitting narrow and obstinate between two apartment buildings. He yearned to get rid of it but Mrs. Spencer would not hear of it. She had come to the white stone edifice as a bride and intended to remain there until her demise. The house was as obstinate, as unreconciled to change as she was. The marble steps were scrubbed daily, the window boxes scrubbed with tulips in spring, geraniums in summer and dwarfed correction of speech deficiencies of pupils will be made later.

The Walnut Township seniors entertained at a school party Friday evening in honor of freshmen.

The Ashville Fire Department made a run to the Ray Heffner farm Friday night when a farm shed caught fire. Slight damage to the floor of the building was caused.

When the emergency brake failed to hold, a car, parked in gear by Mrs. Paul Wellington, ran across the curb and sidewalk of N. Long st., narrowly missing parked cars and pedestrians and crashed into the home of George D. McDowell. Damage was done to fender and bumper of the auto, but no property damage was reported on the dwelling.

evergreens in inclement weather. The delicate ironwork was free from rust and the brass shone like the sun. Nothing could move the Spencer house from its foundations. It was Alexandria Spencer's as long as she chose to occupy it.

Going downstairs, Brad reflected upon the hushed Victorian atmosphere smelling vaguely of port, of conservatory flowers, and he concluded absurdly, of feather boas. I was a house which reeked gently of excellent service and an effulgent past, from the ballroom on the third floor—the servants lived on the fourth—to the basement, and wine cellar. It was a house as well preserved and as stubborn as his grandmother, slipping sherry with the desiccated Miss Ellis.

There was a fire in the drawing room, and the Spencer portraits looked down upon Mrs. Spencer, her companion, and the subdued decor. Miss Ellis was as familiar with the room as with the memory of the parlor in a Sussex vicarage which had echoed to her girlish exclamations. She was a tall meager woman, given to beads, bangs and a perpetual cold in the head.

Brad came in, with his quick light step. He said, "Hi, girls." Miss Ellis sniffed, but not because she was displeased. She always sniffed. And his grandmother said, "Andrews tells me you are dining out."

"That's right, Early." Mrs. Spencer set down her glass. She was a small woman who looked as if she had been fashioned from Venetian glass but whose reactions were those of Bethlehem steel. She was over seventy, how much over only Mrs. Spencer and her Maker knew. She wore her delicate, withered face with pride, as if it were a flower, and her still plentiful white hair coiled high upon her head. Her figure was erect and good, her hands and feet extremely small. She wore, mainly, black, gray or mauve. Tonight it was mauve, in long-skirted velvet, with a fall of lace at the high neck, below the black ribbon caught with a diamond star, her only jewelry except for a wedding ring. She never wore other rings, for her hands were old so why attract attention to them?

Brad said and laughed: "You're consumed with curiosity but never admit it, Gran." She regarded him coldly, she thought. Actually, she could not; she could never feel anything even remotely chilly in connection with her grandson. She had wished him to embark upon a career of diplomacy, and had been bitterly disappointed when he announced that his life would be spent in the obscurity of laboratories. She had prayed that he would be as handsome as his father, and endowed with his mother's almost radiant charm. But Brad's appearance was negligible and his charm extremely quiet.

She said, "I don't pry, Bradford." (To Be Continued)

4-H Clubbers Present Program Before Grangers

Boys and girls who are members of 4-H Clubs in Washington Township, presented a program before Washington Grange Friday evening in the school building.

Their program opened with the 4-H Club pledge. A piano solo was played by Doris Hapenny; Robert Gillan sang "The Lazy Farmer"; John Paul Graffis Jr., Donna Sark and Beverly Hapenny gave readings; Weta Mae Leist played a piano solo and Carol Leist sang a solo.

Janet Brooks and Doris Smith presented a skit entitled "Mrs. New Farmer." Concluding the youths' program, Robert Copeland directed a contest.

Loring Leist, master, presided for a business meeting. Plans were made for inspection at the next Grange meeting. At that time first and second degrees will be conferred upon a group of candidates.

A lunch was served with Miss Martha Bolender serving as chairman for the arrangements.

Kingstonian Gets Top BPW Post

Miss Elizabeth Umsted of the Kingston community was elected director of district 3, Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the state conference of the federation in Columbus.

The new director is vice-president of the Chillicothe BPW unit and a member of the Union to high school. She is a niece of the Misses Bess and Lida Fry of South Court street and is well known in Circleville.

Household Hints

Cauliflower combined with peas makes a tasty vegetable dish. Cook them separately, break the cauliflower into small pieces and mix with the peas. Serve with cream sauce or melted butter.

Never wash eggs before putting them into the refrigerator. They are coated with a protective film that helps keep them fresh. Wash them just before using.

To carry hot pork and beans casserole on a picnic, slip dish fresh from the oven into several thicknesses of heavy paper. Well wrapped, they will stay hot for several hours.

A bittersweet chocolate frosting is made from 4 squares unsweetened chocolate melted with 1/4 cup of butter or margarine; then 1 1/4 cups confectioner's sugar is added along with 1/2 cup light cream or evaporated milk. If you have an electric mixer, use it to beat the frosting smooth. It should be beaten at high speed for about 4 minutes.

Since frankfurters are cooked when manufactured, they need only to be heated; cover them with boiling water and simmer for about 5 to 10 minutes until they are thoroughly hot.

"Rolls-in-a-loaf" will be something new to serve the family or guests. Trim the sides and top crusts from a loaf of unsliced bread. Cut through the center of the loaf just down to the crust, but not through it. Then make cross-wise cuts, spacing them so the "rolls" will be even in size. Brush with melted butter and toast in a moderate oven until the edges are golden brown. Serve hot. They're delicious with Many Circleville persons were in Columbus Friday afternoon to attend the wedding and reception of Miss Harriet Jean Stoker and Thomas Summers.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Harry C. Stoker of Columbus and the late Mr. Stoker and a granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Gearhart of North Court street. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Summers of Columbus.

The Rev. Robert Bull officiated for the ceremony at 3:30 p. m. in St. Paul Episcopal church of that city. The church was decorated with branches of huckleberry, white chrysanthemums and lighted seven-branch candelabra.

Given in marriage by a cousin, Robert Dunn, of Minneapolis, the bride repeated vows in a delicate pink satin gown. Her veil of imported illusion, edged in Chantilly lace was caught to a Queen Ann cap. Chantilly lace trimmed the wedding gown. She carried a shower arrangement of white orchids.

Miss Dorothy Dunn and Miss Jean Dunn of Minneapolis, Minn., cousins of the bride served as bridesmaids. Harry Westernman of Columbus was best man.

A reception immediately followed in the Columbus Country Club.

When the new Mr. and Mrs. Summers left on an undisclosed destination, the bride was wearing a navy-blue suit, a small feather hat and an orchid corsage.

The bride attended Christian college in Columbia, Mo., and was graduated by Ohio State university.

The bridegroom also was graduated by Ohio State and now is in business in Columbus. The new couple will make a home in Columbus.

To clean those satin scuffs trimmed with rabbit fur, clean the satin with a pad saturated with dry cleaning fluid. The fur may be cleaned with bird sand, which is available in pet shops and ten-cent stores, or corn meal that has been wet with cleaning fluid. Gently rub the sand into the fur to absorb the soil, then remove it with a soft brush.

BE KIND TO THAT CORD

There will be fewer chances for interruptions to your service if you will periodically straighten and take the knots out of your telephone instrument cords.

A major part of the trouble in subscriber's station equipment is due to tangled and "kinky" cords, and those sharp twists in the cords eventually weakens the insulation, breaks the wire conductors and this interrupts your service until a cord replacement can be made by the service man.

Of the 25 million new cords manufactured for the telephone industry each year, approximately half that number, or 12 1/2 million are used for the replacement of broken cords on telephone instruments and switchboards. So you can help yourself to better service by being kind to that cord.

These Days

(A) Retail sales tax of not more than two percent on tangible personal property, other than food products, drugs and other enumerated items;

(B) Tax on the ownership of motor vehicles at not more than $5 per passenger vehicle and not more than $10 per commercial vehicle, per annum, excepting trucks used exclusively for farming purposes;

(C) Tax of not more than three percent on restaurant meals and drinks over $1;

(D) Tax on alcoholic beverage control retail licenses at not more than 25 percent of the amount of the state license fee;

(E) Tax of not more than five percent on admissions to amusements;

(F) Tax on vending machines at not more than $10 per machine per year.

Few communities have availed themselves of these privileges because it is easier for school administrators and local politicians to get state aid—but parents ought to study this problem from the standpoint of their participation in the education of their own children.

Parasites Loot Mammoth Toll

Few criminals ever dream of committing a $125 million robbery. But that's the amount internal parasites steal from the U. S. livestock industry every year. Because the parasites are hidden, the farmer never will see the thieves at work. However, they keep right on causing losses day and night.

Parasites cause diseased animals and poultry to eat more grain and other feeds than healthy stock eat. They stunt the growth of young animals and sometimes kill them. Affected animals generally bring lower prices when shipped to market.

The annual rental paid by the Navy for leased properties has been reduced by $15,000,000 since the close of World War II.

He has particularly emphasized the need for increasing local revenue for school purposes and has recommended that local communities, with certain exceptions, be given the right to impose:

(A) Retail sales tax of not more than two percent on tangible personal property, other than food products, drugs and other enumerated items;

(B) Tax on the ownership of motor vehicles at not more than $5 per passenger vehicle and not more than $10 per commercial vehicle, per annum, excepting trucks used exclusively for farming purposes;

(C) Tax of not more than three percent on restaurant meals and drinks over $1;

(D) Tax on alcoholic beverage control retail licenses at not more than 25 percent of the amount of the state license fee;

(E) Tax of not more than five percent on admissions to amusements;

(F) Tax on vending machines at not more than $10 per machine per year.

Few communities have availed themselves of these privileges because it is easier for school administrators and local politicians to get state aid—but parents ought to study this problem from the standpoint of their participation in the education of their own children.

Parasites Loot Mammoth Toll

Few criminals ever dream of committing a $125 million robbery. But that's the amount internal parasites steal from the U. S. livestock industry every year. Because the parasites are hidden, the farmer never will see the thieves at work. However, they keep right on causing losses day and night.

Parasites cause diseased animals and poultry to eat more grain and other feeds than healthy stock eat. They stunt the growth of young animals and sometimes kill them. Affected animals generally bring lower prices when shipped to market.

The annual rental paid by the Navy for leased properties has been reduced by $15,000,000 since the close of World War II.

Tigers Open League Play With Win Over Hillsboro

Circleville Tigers whitewashed the Indians of Hillsboro Friday night in their SCO league season opener, 14-0.

The Red and Black squad started the encounter at a torrid pace, clicking off four first downs and a touchdown with but a scant three minutes of playing time elapsed.

However, play following the Tiger score settled to a push-pull affair, most of the playing done in the visitors' territory.

Climaxing thrill of the skirmish came in the third canto when, with the Indians menacing on the Circleville 13-yard line, John Valentine dragged down a pass heaved by Lauren Boatman and stepped the 87 yard route to pay dirt.

SETUP FOR the first Tiger trip into the Indian tepee included a 10-yard runback of kickoff by Charles Sabine, acting captain for the night, a 15-yard line gain by Dick Francis, 12-yard line plunge by Harold "Sandy" Hill, a Bob McAllister-to-Francis pass good for 12 yards, another Hill gain of nine yards and

Triple Tie Knots AL Flag Chase

Braves On Brink Of NL Clincher

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—While the Boston Braves may clinch the National League pennant today, the American League race shapes up as a long, hard dog-fight as the result of an unprecedented September triple tie for first place.

The New York Yankees brought about this phenomenon by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 6, in the opener of a crucial three-game series, while Cleveland was losing to Detroit 4 to 3. These developments made the Red Sox, Yankees and Indians all even in games won, lost and to play.

The feature of these dramatics was the rehabilitation of Billy Johnson, third baseman of the New York Yankees, who has been in and out of the doghouse all season.

Before the start of yesterday's game, Johnson was benched in favor of Bobby Brown. All Brown did in his first three trips to the plate was to whack two triples and a double, keeping New York very much in the ball game.

Then Johnson, named as a pinch hitter with two men on base, walloped a homer, which won the game for the Yankees.

JOE PAGE, with fairly effective relief pitching, preserved New York's lead.

Cleveland's Indians led their ace, Bob Lemon, against Detroit but the 20-game winner was trumped by the Tigers. A two-run double by Vic Wertz won the game. Cleveland won the futility title when Larry Doby, Ken Keltner and Joe Gordon hit homers off Fred Hutchinson, but all with the bases empty.

Cleveland, which had counted the Tigers a soft touch, may be in for further trouble now that Lemon and Bob Feller have been used up in the last two games, because Detroit's great pitching staff is finally living up to its reputation.

Chicago's White Sox shaded the St. Louis Browns in a night game, 4 to 3. Al Gettel pitched a five-hitter for the rejuvenated Sox.

In the National League, the Braves can clinch the pennant today if they beat the New York Giants and the Cardinals lose to the Cubs. St. Louis drew half a game ahead of the idle Brooklyn Dodgers in the battle for second place when Harry Brecheen held the Cubs to five hits and beat them 4 to 1 for his 19th win of the season.

Charlie Trippi, now a veteran, served notice today that he does not intend to let Chuck Conerly of the New York Giants or any other freshman outshine him in the National Football League this season.

Trippi's trick 64-yard pass to Mal Kutner gave the Chicago Cardinals a 21-to-14 win over Philadelphia as they opened defense of their title last night. Earlier, Trippi scored the first Card touchdown on an eight-yard run, and Kutner made the second on a 30-yard pass from Paul Christman.

Tommy Thompson passed for Philly's two scores.

Tomorrow, the Green Bay Packers should beat the Chicago Bears, and the Washington Redskins will be favored over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

In the rival All-America Conference tomorrow, Brooklyn will invade Baltimore, the Champion Cleveland Browns will entertain the Chicago Rockets, and the mighty San Francisco Forty-Niners will storm into Buffalo. Baltimore, Cleveland and San Francisco will be favored.

Missouri Gets Pre-Game Nod Against OSU

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25—Ohio State and Missouri held their eighth intercollegiate gridiron get-together today with the Tigers a definite favorite for the first time.

Ohio State Coach Wes Fesler, ever the optimist, rated the game a "toss-up," but most observers saw it differently. Some of them felt the only thing Ohio State had to brag about was the weather. It was crisp and fair and was expected to attract in excess of 60,000 fans. In seven previous meetings, Ohio State has won six and tied one.

This appeared to be Missouri's year. The Tigers had 19 lettermen on their first two teams. Don Faurot's tricky "T" formation had a great field director in Harold (Hus) Entsminger.

Ohio, after a disastrous season in 1947, was starting off with a flock of injuries, particularly in the vulnerable end positions. The situation was so bad, in fact, that Chuck Gilbert, a junior varsity guard until last Spring, had the starting nod on the right flank.

Pro Gridder Dies Shortly After Contest

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Stan Mauldin, star right tackle of the Chicago Cardinals, collapsed and died today a few hours after his team opened defense of its National Football League title against the Philadelphia Eagles, winning 21-14.

Cook County Coroner A. L. Brodie announced after an autopsy the player's death was "probably caused by an acute heart attack."

Cardinal Halfback Marshall Goldberg said Mauldin had complained of a headache before the game last night. But two minutes before the contest ended, the 1947 all-league tackle said to Coach Jimmy Conzelman:

"Let me back in. We've got to stop them."

The 27-year-old player told teammates after the game:

"I got kicked harder in the head tonight than I ever got kicked before. I feel a little dizzy."

However, he told Fullback Pat Harder that he was all right and took a shower. He commented, "nice going, gang, we beat 'em again," as he came out and sat down on the bench.

A moment later he collapsed on the floor and never regained consciousness.

Metz Holding Lead In Meet

VANCOUVER, Sept. 25—The field was trimmed to the 60 low scorers and ties today for the playoff round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

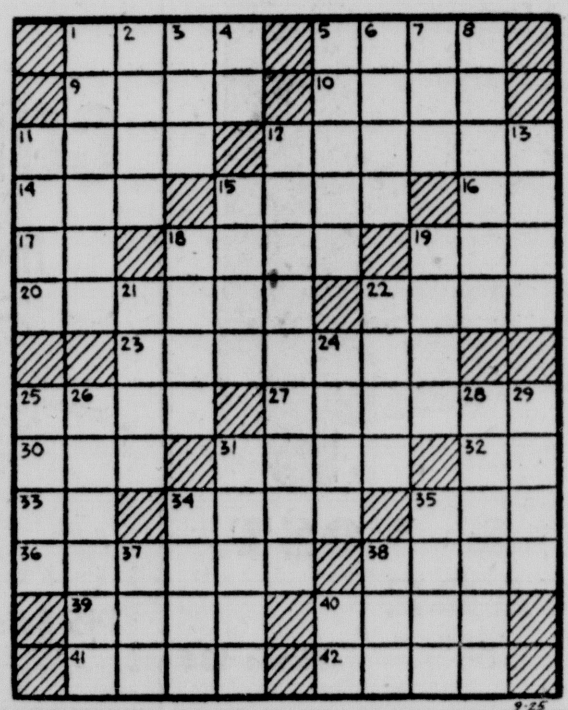

As the final round get under way, Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, had a two stroke lead over the field thanks to three straight sub-par rounds. Metz shot a 71 yesterday, for a 209.

Pressing him for the lead was the veteran Tacoma, Wash., pro, Chuck Congdon, whose third round gave him a 211 total for 54 holes.

'Kippy Kit', Little Known Here, Has Wide Following

30 Doodads Put Out By Local Firm

'Swish-Swisher'
Is Latest Gadget

One of Circleville's most interesting and unusual manufacturing concerns is practically unknown to residents but has a nation-wide popularity with its products.

Kippy Kit Co., originated here 21 years ago by present owner, Lawrence Goeller, puts out an amazing array of brushes, key cases, cigaret cases, plastic novelties and, their latest, a "swish-swisher."

Production of brushes is the principal business of the company, having originated the original "Kippy Kit" when starting in business.

"And they wear practically forever," declares sales-conscious Goeller. He backs his statement by exhibiting one of the first "Kippy Kits" ever manufactured.

Purchased when the business was young, the brush and holder are slightly the worse for wear but still capable of giving the "blue serge" or family car many good cleanings.

GOELLER SAID he bought back the brush from a man who had received it as a graduation gift about 21 years ago, in the year of the business' birth.

The standard product is still the "Kippy Kit," which is a leather topped, tampico fiber brush encased in leather back with sheepskin shoe polisher on the inside.

The local plant has exploited the plastic field in recent years, bringing forth plastic topped, plastic bristled, plastic cased products in any or all of three combinations.

Plastic-bristled brushes were brought into production because of attractive colors and the attraction of lint and dust particles to the bristles which are charged with static electricity.

The "swish-swisher," latest of the company's brain children, is a sponge rubber-tipped rod which is used for a bottle washer or lint remover or just a swab.

None of the Kippy Kit products appear to have only a single function—all created for their utility for different jobs.

For instance, Goeller has put a "Par-Pak-It" on the market recently, specially created for golfers. The kit has a cigaret case (or tee bag) on the front, with a pocket in the rear for an automatic scorer. The cigaret case, which also has a convenient match holder, can be disengaged from the rest of the kit, leaving the scorer attached to the belt.

Then there are key cases, which will hold keys, coins for parking meters and operator's license.

Altogether, the local plant is producing about 30 "handy gadgets," Goeller boasts.

Production at the plant, engineered with the same basic thought of utilization, is speedy and efficient, single machines adapted to take place of many.

Probably the top item in production at the company is the "Klipper Kit," a variation of the original kit, fashioned in pigskin. The "Klipper Kit" contains the standard tampico-fibred brush, while the housing case contains a comb, nail file, nail clippers, bottle opener and shoe cloth impregnated with both black and brown shoe polish.

Goeller has a display case jammed with products at his North Pickaway street plant, containing an array of articles ranging from small plastic and leather doodads to Florentine-engraved gold duplicated brush cases.

Her Boy Friend Is Real 'Cutup'

FORT WORTH — It took three and a half hours of surgery and 175 stitches to sew up the knife cuts of a 20-year-old woman in Fort Worth.

And when it was all over, she amazed doctors, nurses and police by walking out of the hospital saying, "I don't want to file charges against nobody—my boy friend done it!"

THIS IS REALLY ENOUGH to get a baby's goat! Imagine, a fresh kid trying to horn in on a milk bottle—and with milk at the price that it is! But it happened, and at the Mineola, N. Y., Country Fair. The youngster, Janet Neville, seems strangely undisturbed, however, although she has good reason to protest. (International)

GOP Women Continue Meet

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25—The convention of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organizations was to resume business here today after last night's banquet and galaxy of speakers.

The assembly was addressed by United States Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gov. Thomas A. Herbert.

Representative Dirksen told the convention that a Republican victory in the coming elections must be clear-cut so that enemies of the U. S. could find little "comfort in the results."

Arson Charged In Nursery Fire

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25—Roy Lingruen, 20, of suburban Rocky River, today faced a one-to-20-year sentence for setting a $100,000 blaze at the River Greenhouse Co.

Lingruen, whose father is greenhouse manager, admitted setting fire to the building after two and a half hours on a lie detector test yesterday at central police station in Cleveland.

He told Fire Chief Clarence Anderson and detectives that his employer, Herman L. Christensen, had refused him a raise and he took that means to get even.

Ballot Ruling Said Illegal

LIMA, Sept. 25—A writ of mandamus has been filed in the third district court of appeals here asking that ballot counting instructions issued by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel be ignored.

The writ was filed by Dr. Gene F. Ca Jacob of Lima, naming the Allen County board of elections.

Ca Jacob claimed that Hummel's instructions were contrary to Ohio law if followed and that voters would stand deprived of their rights.
